

Prof. Jonathan Plucker is a Professor of Education at Johns Hopkins University, where he works in the School of Education. Previously, he was Julian C. Stanley Endowed Professor of Talent Development at Johns Hopkins, Raymond Neag Endowed Professor of Education at the University of Connecticut, and Professor of Educational Psychology and Cognitive Science at Indiana University, where he was the founding director of the Center for Evaluation and Education Policy. He graduated with a B.S. in chemistry education and M.A. in educational psychology from the University of Connecticut, then after briefly teaching at an elementary school in New York, received his Ph.D. in educational psychology from the University of Virginia.

His research examines education policy and talent development, with over 300 publications to his credit and over $40 million in external funding to support his work. Prof. Plucker's recent books include From Giftedness to Gifted Education with Anne Rinn and Matthew Makel, Excellence Gaps in Education with Scott Peters, and Creativity and Innovation. The last two of which received the National Association for Gifted Children Book Award. He is an APA, APS, AERA, and AAAS Fellow and recipient of the 2012 Arnheim Award for Outstanding Achievement in the Psychology of Creativity from APA and 2013 Distinguished Scholar Award from the National Association for Gifted Children. He is a past-president of the Society for the Psychology of Aesthetics, Creativity, and the Arts and immediate past-president of the National Association for Gifted Children.

Prof. Plucker and his family live in Germantown in western Tennessee.